On Wednesday, the shortlist was released for another of football's most prestigious prizes a place in the FIFPro World 👍 XI and again only one Liverpool player made the cut. This time, it was Virgil van Dijk rather than 👍 Salah.
The one player who doesn't have remotely as strong a case is Cristiano Ronaldo, who scored three goals in 16 👍 appearances for Manchester United before having his contract terminated when he furiously spoke out against the club. He'd already made 👍 his last appearance for the Red Devils when he traveled to the World Cup, where he failed to score from 👍 open play and lost his place in the starting line-up for the knockout stages.
His subsequent return of 14 goals in 👍 19 games for Saudi Pro League side Al-Nassr was impressive on paper but, as Twenty First Group analyst Aurel Nazmiu 👍 noted at the time, that division sat somewhere between League One and League Two in quality. That has not substantially 👍 changed since and Ronaldo's inclusion is therefore baffling.
On that basis, it's egregious that Ronaldo features on the shortlist, and it's 👍 pretty clear that he's only there on the basis of his pre-existing global reputation. Some would question how much all 👍 of this really matters compared to team success, and whether Liverpool supporters should really care. Jürgen Klopp and those that 👍 matter, after all, already know exactly what the Egyptian offers.
