Foreign companies can create a branch office (succursale) in the U.S. to conduct business with U.S. customers. The branch office is not a separate legal entity, but it is a separate accounting entity. The branch office is subject to U.S. tax law, and it must file a U.S. tax return. The branch office is also subject to U.S. regulatory requirements, such as the Sarbanes-Oxley Act. The branch office is a useful tool for foreign companies to expand their U.S. market presence.
