ite the difference! So why does a minecraft day go by so much faster than a real life? It's not just the speed of the game, but the way it's designed. The game's day-night cycle is much shorter than in real life, which makes it feel like time is passing much faster. This is a common feature in many simulation games, as it allows players to experience a full day and night cycle without having to wait for hours in real life.
